

I did my internship in victimology and received the certificate of success on January 13 2022.

It was emotionally shaking.

A 1817 UNIVERSITY, 3 CITIES, 4 CAMPUS

The campus brings together the Faculty of Philosophy and Letters, the Faculty of Architecture, the University's School of Management and the Central Administration. Established for 200 years, in the heart of a city steeped in history, the University has since deployed its infrastructures in different districts of the City.

The Rectorate, the Administration and the Faculty of Philosophy and Letters are grouped together in the central building.

The Royal University Theater has its large hall there and the public can visit the Gallery and the Museum of Prehistory.

The main building also houses prestigious rooms, including the Professors' Room as well as the superb Academic Room, one of the most remarkable examples of neoclassical architecture in the country.

Along the river, are the Embarcadère du Savoir, the Aquarium-Museum and the House of Science, while the Language Training Center is located in the Former Anatomy Institute.

I received the keys through very precious knowledge.

The motto of the University, SCIENTIA OPTIMUM, presented by Rector P W during the 2019 Academic Entry Ceremony aims to concisely express the identity and objectives of the University.

In this Latin phrase, optimum translates to "the best" or "excellent" and scientia indicates a means: "by science" or more broadly "by knowledge". The motto therefore translates to "excellence through science" or "the best through knowledge".

The message it carries applies naturally:

To the teaching, which must make it possible to achieve the best of abilities thanks to the knowledge that the University helps to acquire;

Research, which aims to discover the knowledge that will lead to the best.

To our role in society, which we want to improve by providing knowledge.

Integrity, humanity, freedom, daring and responsibility.

Five fundamental values accompany this motto and guide the functioning of the University.

Integrity: in the management of an institution, it is to ensure that one acts in the best interests of it without taking into account special interests, partisan and personal, nor of hidden or shameful influences.

Humanity: it is respect for all human beings in their diversity .. it is the banishment of all discriminatory, degrading or degrading acts and words.

Freedom: is being able to express oneself without fear and never be constrained by an arbitrary authority.

Freedom always demands that it be used with integrity and humanity.

Boldness: daring to think outside the box and not limit yourself out of fear. This is the key to great progress, both in science and elsewhere.

Responsibility: it is taking responsibility for the consequences of your choices and actions, without trying to pass them on to others.

It must always accompany daring.

Thank you:
