Updates.

When you want to move forward but, you got holded back, there is no point trying on this path.

As it needs to be fixed and many things have to be improved because this way does not allow me to work.

I'm already working in a rather complicated way, but this series of things is really too much: it's too complicated so my profile seems so bad that I'm ashamed.

All my workshops at the Cité des Sciences could not be done despite the space of time between each.

So, I will erase that from my website.

I guess I'm going to lose the second Wikipedia workshop and still lose some things so, to conclude, I'll get back to work when it's possible, elsewhere, under other conditions.
